

THIS IS IT ! THE ACTUAL FACTS ! NO LIES !

The horror of dating, love and boning.

WHY THIS STUPID GAME?

Dating is something we're stuck with. Face it, we're driven to it. We wouldn't be here if it weren't such a powerful genetic impulse. We wouldn't be here if our parents weren't driven to it. The act of sex feels good for a reason. And that reason is so you will have kids. Who will in turn have more kids. Etcetera, etcetera, ..., ad infinitum. That's it.

For this reason we'll put up with the completely annoying uncomfortable act of DATING. And it IS unpleasant! Everyone has incredible expectations: "True Love"; someone who will completely understand you ; an idea of total happiness and euphoria. These distorted expressions lead to the reality of relationships: Misery ; Nasty, belittling remarks ; Petty cruelty ; Rejection ; long nights spent by the telephone - alone! ; Incomprehensible feelings of overwhelming emptiness.

Amazing! What was expected to be so good is generally so horrible. So how did it get this messed up?

Love has always been brutal, but today the issue is confused to a degree that is unlike any other time in history. There used to be an approach to dating. Adults used to take a hand in organizing this mess and also kept youth from doing the whole thing stupidly. They would have chaperoned parties. There were events so you would get to know the person you were interested in before it became a confused groping session where both parties end up (the next morning) too embarrassed to ever talk to each other again.

You used to be able to move slowly and steadily toward a relationship without getting emotionally butchered. There was this idea of "courting" that actually worked rather well.

But adults are useless nowadays as they all still think they're kids. It's pathetic ! A further problem is that the whole idea of being with someone has changed. It all used to be guided by the idea of getting married and having a stable home and kids. Well apparently no one wants kids anymore and stability has flown out the window. At this point we're all like a bunch of desperate crack addicts. We seek the feeling of Sex and Love, but we want it QUICK with no effort or work. We want a distilled burst of it and we want it NOW!

In our opinion all dating should really be looked at as the behavior of a drug addict. We are all in search of the purest dose of this drug. We want it packaged perfectly. It has to feel really good. And if it doesn't then we're off searching for another dose, hoping our next hit will satisfy us. And of course it never does! You can argue with us -- but we aren't listening. Experience bears this out, and people will lie (even to themselves!) about what they want. Well now that we know dating is a complete cluster-fuck, let's try and deal with it in some sane way.

DATING

This is the problem: you take two people who want different things from each other -- things that don't often match -- and you are going to have TROUBLE! Somehow you have to get past this trouble and find some common ground in order to get what you want.

THE HORRIBLE TRUTH

Some magazine articles will tell you that you can go out with anyone if you do the right things, wear the right clothes, use the right body language. Well that's all a HUGE LIE used to sell magazines. The fact is someone who doesn't want to go out with you ... DOESN'T WANT TO GO OUT WITH YOU! Live with it. Someone who wants to go out with you will show VERY obvious signs. They will like talking with you. They will laugh at your dumb jokes and stupid behavior. They will see it all as "attractive".

The main secret in all this is not to waste your time chasing what you just are not going to get. You want Honesty? Well to begin with, you are going to have to lower your standards. If someone appears unattainable -- THEY ARE! If you torture yourself, you will only set yourself up for endless amounts of pain! SNAP OUT OF IT! don't be a moron!

THE HORROR OF MODERN TIMES

We live in a time where we can see the most 'perfect' forms of people all the time on TV or in magazines. We are bombarded night and day with the ideal male or female. And let's not lie about this -- you don't stack up against Pamela Anderson or Brad Pitt. You don't, Case Closed! You can BITCH that today's definition of beauty is false. But bitch all you want. It's not going to change anything.

So genetically you got what you got. Learn to live with it. And try to find someone who finds you attractive.

WHAT DO MEN WANT?

Well the obvious answer (because it's true!) is S-E-X. And men will have sex with almost anyone or anything -- inanimate objects, farm animals, the family dog. Whatever ...!

Men will have sex with the ugliest women as long as it's made very easy for them and no one finds out about it. That is key.

Men would really like to have sex without any commitment. Unfortunately they usually can't. So they are stuck trying to have relationships.

And as far as relationships go, men don't really mind them. And in some ways there is the hope that they will have a constant source of sex from someone they actually want to have sex with! So they want someone attractive who will make it easy for them to have sex.

But there is one more complication. If you are too available -- otherwise known as 'EASY' - they will think you must not be valuable.

The reason is they think you will ALWAYS be available. So they will start looking to bone others knowing you will always be around if they get desperate. Yeah, this is sick -- but it's unfortunately true. The fact is you have to tease them along, making them do a little work for it - until they want a relationship. This is a pain in the ass; but there really is no way around it! We said this was sick!

WHAT DO WOMEN WANT? ...

... relationships mostly. Women who want sex without a relationship are rare and you are unlikely to find any that like easy sex and still look somewhat human.

Women want sex too, but the relationship is generally key. What a woman actually wants most of all is an ESCORT, someone who looks good with them and that they can be proud of. Remember women played with dolls. And one of those dolls was 'Ken'. And 'Ken' was not around for sex. He was there to take Barbie places -- he was there to "play" boyfriend.

To a woman, a man is sort of an accessory, like a purse or shoes. If you want them to want you, you have to be a worthy accessory. That is why women like men who are rich and/or powerful. These men can take women out in a style that matches their feverish little fantasies. It is important to know that fantasy plays a key role in women's minds.

Practically-speaking this means that if you aren't tied in with parties, people, money, and cars, then you aren't going to get the hottest looking females. Another FACT -- live with it!

SECRETS

Honestly, there really aren't any secrets. All of the below should be obvious -- but apparently they are not.

SECRETS FOR MEN

First off you have to loosen up. Avoid being nervous or using stupid pickup lines. They rarely work and really make you appear like a retard. The only guys who can use pickup lines are the type that can bullshit on-and-on past that first "line". If you can't lie easily, don't bother!

[note to women: if a guy can use pickup lines well, that person is a liar and will have no problem lying to you in the future.]

The most successful approach is to make friends with some women. Any women! The women you make friends with are NOT women you are going to attempt to fool around with. You are going to use this friendship to meet all their friends. If you 'bone' the woman who is the "access point" for this, she will not understand that you want to bone all her friends too! So be SMART!

The whole idea is that by being around in normal situations, the friends of your target woman will get to know you (hopefully you are worth knowing!) and after they get to know you there is the possibility to get something going with one of them. This is the ABSOLUTE BEST (almost guaranteed!) way to meet women and have a real chance at something worthwhile. Don't fuck it up!

SECRETS FOR WOMEN

Meeting men is much easier from the woman's perspective. But it can still be difficult to get close to the kind of guys you are after. You can use the same trick spelled out above for the men. Make friends with some guys and meet their friends. THE ONLY PROBLEM IS THAT MEN DON'T UNDERSTAND THE TERM "FRIENDS".

In fact, this is a good place to Wake Women Up !!! Men do NOT have female friends. They may say they want to be your "friend" or that they are doing things for you because you are "friends". But you are NOT their friend. They are "acting" like they are your "friend" because they are trying to have sex with you.

This is a FACT! Trust us! As much as you think you are a wonderful, fascinating, and exciting female, you really aren't so interesting to MEN !

The reality is : men would always rather hang out with other men. There are NO exceptions (unless the guy is 'gay'). SO WAKE UP ! Don't make us explain this. Just accept that it is true. If you can navigate the "friends" thing properly, you can begin to be around the guy you want to be around. Hopefully you will be able to transition this into a relationship. Obviously try and take it s-l-o-w . The fact is if the guy bones you immediately, there is a good chance you will never see him again. Men like to bone and run. They always have. Your job is to train the guy NOT to run by making this all happen very, very slowly.

IF YOU CAN'T MAKE FRIENDS ...

... well then you're just plain screwed ! Learn how to! If you can't do this yet, you are out-of-the-scope of anything this article can do for you. This also means you better lower your standards -- SEVERELY!!! Don't think the object of your desire will somehow understand that you are a wonderful person under a completely whacked-out, una-bomberesque personality. No one will ever understand how wonderful you are. This is not a very understanding world.